Summary

I'm a dedicated Software Engineering student at AUIS (American University of Iraq, Sulaimani), driven by a profound passion for coding and continuous self-learning.

My skill set spans the spectrum of web development, from foundational technologies like HTML, CSS, and JavaScript to advanced tools such as Node.js, Express.js, ReactJs, and MongoDB, allowing me to craft innovative and sophisticated projects.

Proficient in Microsoft Office, including Word, Excel, and PowerPoint, I leverage these tools to create polished and professional documents and presentations.

Specializing in the MERN stack (MongoDB, Express.js, React, and Node.js), I've honed my abilities in building robust and dynamic applications. My journey in software development is marked by a constant pursuit of knowledge, as I eagerly explore new technologies and methodologies.

Excited about the prospect of utilizing my skills to create impactful software and contribute to the ever-evolving field of software development.
